Eric,

I was just sent your post on flat earth and wanted to touch base on that. Firstly, I want you to know that if you apply the same logic and scientific analysis to that question as to the virus issue, you'll find the same result. The mainstream story has no evidence. As a result, several of us doctors in the no virus camp (not just Amandha Vollmer) realize the earth is not a sphere and is not spinning or flying through space. The astrology has been worked out for other models besides a sphere but that is a straw man argument. The only thing that can tell you about the shape of the earth is the shape of the earth.

The most compelling evidence that refutes the sphere model is line of sight experiments. These are repeatable and well documented. You can do it yourself and see for yourself. In addition, all the flight training books for the FAA, NASA, etc. use a "stationary plane" model of the earth for navigation and flight dynamics. How can that be in a globe earth? (I have these documents)

The Michalson Morley experiment tells us the earth is not moving. There was a complete perversion of this experiment after the fact by Einstein but that was to cover up the results. He used a mathematical abstraction to subtract out the aether from the equation and make a still earth into a moving one. The theory of general relativity was generated to make this so he could interpret the earth moving and sun the being still instead of the other way around.

Whenever I've asked globe proponents for direct evidence they are unable to produce anything. I think both sides know that the NASA composite images aren't worth a dime.

Hope this helps you understand why many of us doubt the globe model which makes us men and women insignificant, just ants on a ball spinning themselves into dizziness and hurling through space in several frames of motion at incredible speeds for eternity without purpose.
